DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 12 August 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's argument that The Open Group reference does not disclose having a non-specified number security keys is not persuasive because The Open Group discloses that system contains authentication information for multiple systems (Pages 1-2), wherein the authentication information includes encryption keys (Page 114).

2. Applicant's argument that The Open Group reference does not disclose generation of at least one new security key for the subscriber based on received key attribute data is not persuasive because The Open Group discloses on page 10 under the heading "The XSSO services invoked by the Primary Sign-on Application are responsible for:" discloses that information acquired from the user is used to generate authentication information for the primary sign-on and any subsequent secondary sign-ons, wherein the authentication information includes encryption keys (Page 114).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1, 2, 4-8, 10, 11, 13, 25-29, 32, 34, 35, 44, 45, 47, 48 are rejected under 35

U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by The Open Group, "X/Open Single Sign-On Service

(XSSO) – Plugged Authentication Modules". Referring to claims 1, 2, 4, 7, 8, 11, 13, 25, 26, 29,

Art Unit: 2132

32, 34, 44, 45, 47, Open Group discloses a single sign-on service wherein an end user need only sign-on once in order to access multiple domains (Page 3). The user provides at log-on any and all information necessary to provide a user session on the workstation. The XSSO sign-on service provides an authentication mechanism for multiple components for implementing user authentication and session establishment whilst maintaining a common interface for the calling application, which meets the limitation of providing a configurable security key manifest operative to contain a non-prespecified number of security keys. The XSSO sign-on service has a service cache that provides storage for sign-on information obtained or derived as a part of the primary sign-on operation from which it can be retrieved for use in subsequent secondary sign-on operation during the current user session (Page 10), which meets the limitation of accepting new key attribute data to produce a configured security key manifest and generation of at least one new security key for the subscriber based on received key attribute data contained in the configured security key manifest. Pages 14-17 and 38 further outline the authentication procedures of the single sign-on method illustrating the authentication of an old authentication token and the generation of new authentication tokens. Pages 110 and 114 disclose that the authentication token can be cryptographic keys in symmetric or asymmetric form, which meets the limitation of generating a new public key pair for the subscriber based on content of the configurable security key manifest.

Referring to claims 5, 6, 10, 27, 28, 35, 48, Open Group discloses that the XSSO sign-on support services caches the user authentication information (Pages 10-11), which meets the limitation of the configured security key manifest including subscriber data and authentication data. The information retrieved or derived during the primary sign-on operation may be cached

(Page 20), which meets the limitation of preexisting credential set. In order for the user to authenticate with a secondary domain, a secondary sign-on operation is run that retrieves the information cached during the primary sign-on operation and is used to create secondary authentication information (Pages 20, 70, 72, 77, 83), which meets the limitation of comparing the updated security key manifest to the preexisting credential set containing at least one preexisting cryptographic security key and updating the preexisting credential set based on the comparison.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 15-24, 36-43, and 49 are allowed.
6. Claims 3, 9, 12, 30, 33, 46 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
7. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:
The prior art does not disclose a security key manifest as described in the present application that can receive new key attribute data through a configurable security key manifest template, or that the configured security key manifest is digitally signed.

Conclusion

8. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
